

The no call list in Wisconsin should be allowed to stand. Calling people at their home is so intrusive. Big business is taking over so many aspect of our lives, we should have the right to say what we wish to have come into our homes. They already may send what ever they want through mass mailings, they have access to television and radio advertising. I should be able to say I don't want them calling me at home.

The ways they do this is also very discourteous. To have your phone ring a few times and then you answer it to find no one there because someone else on the mass dialing system got to the phone faster is really annoying. The phone calls that start with a message asking you to hold for someone is awful.
